Contents

Some Preludizing Thoughts .................................................................................... vi
Introduction ............................................................................................................... 1
Musical Semiotics: A Universal Method or Variations on Musical Art? ................................................................. 13
Musical Work and the Perspective of Pansemiotism ........................................... 36
Logic of musical discourse: Modalities ............................................................. 54
Semantics of Musical Discourse ....................................................................... 77
Interpretation and the Concept of “Truth” in Music ...................................... 106
Actoriality: Epistemology of Musical Space and Time ................................ 131
The Dualism of Musical Discourse vs. Discourse about Music and Its Theoretical Formulation as a Point of Departure for the Theory of Linguistic Activism in Musicology and in Musical Semiotics .................................................................................. 143
Linguistic Activism in Musicology .................................................................. 152
In search of a new paradigm? ........................................................................ 166